DISCUSSION

Since 1985, America has celebrated July as the Nation's official Park and Recreation Month. It recognizes the importance of community parks and recreational areas and the role they play as a contributing environmental indicator for better health and physical activity.

Parks and recreational areas makes lives and communities better now and in the future by providing access to the serenity and inspiration of nature, outdoor space to play and exercise, facilities for self-directed and organized recreation, positive alternatives for youth which help lower crime and mischief and activities that facilitate social connections, human development, therapy, the arts and lifelong learning.

This July, the City of Fullerton Parks and Recreation Department joins with other park and recreation departments across America to celebrate 33 years of Park and Recreation Month and the enduring importance of parks and recreation to our communities.
